ABOUT NED

The NED University of Engineering & Technology, one of the oldest institutions in Pakistan for teaching and producing Engineering graduates, was established in March 1977 under an Act of the Provincial Assembly of Sindh after upgrading the former NED Government Engineering College, which was set up in 1921.

From an enrolment of 50 students in 1923, the student population, at undergraduate, graduate and Ph.D. levels, has now gone to more than 12,000. The University has one Main Campus of 5,167,877 sq. ft. situated on the Main University Road. The University has two satellite campuses: LEJ Campus (100,000 sq. ft.) where Biomedical Engineering programme is conducted; and the City campus (70,000 sq. ft) which is the site of the original NED Campus where Architecture and Development Studies programmes are conducted.

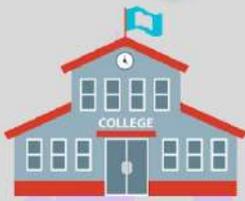

NED University has started a constituent college at Tharparkar District, offering BS in Computer Science and BE Civil Engineering Programmes.
