Remotebase is a technology startup that connects top Pakistani software engineers with some of the most innovative companies in Silicon Valley.

They recently raised a $1.4 Million round from Indus Valley Capital, Tim Draper, and other international investors; and therefore plan to hire over 1000 software engineers from Pakistan over the course of the next 14 months as a part of our expansion plan.

Their engineers not only receive on average a 40% higher salary than competitor jobs, but are also offered some great perks like flexible working hours, the option to work fully remote, family health insurance, gym memberships, and learning and development opportunities to help them upskill themselves.
