

Company Introduction:

Oxford University Press (OUP) is a department of the University of Oxford. We are one of Pakistan's leading publishers, committed to the objectives of the university—to further education, learning, and cultural excellence through publishing. OUP is the largest and most successful university press in the world with offices in over 50 countries and publishes more than 6,000 new resources a year across the academic and educational spectrum.

OUP Pakistan has been established in 1952 and takes pride in its Human Capital. As a company, we are committed to our people, both employees and customers alike. We seek to employ like-minded people with a drive to succeed who constantly strive to challenge themselves. Recruiting individuals from all walks of life, we aim to ensure that the needs of everyone in the OUP community are considered and met. As a brand recognized around the world, we aim to nurture talent and creativity at OUP. Our global reach offers you the opportunity to broaden horizons and further develop one's career.
